INTRODUCTION

You know this . . .

Think about a time in your life when you created a ritual, participated in a ceremony, made some magic. Describe it. Remember it. Fully inhabit it.

STORIED MAGIC

What are the guiding stories for your own magical experiences?

In Making Magic, I offer one of the guiding stories for my own understanding of magic, an original re-telling of the Three Bears. Now it's your turn! What are the stories that are most full of magic for you? Write one of them down in your own words:

You can listen to an oral telling of the Three Bears here or at brianasaussy.com/golden-locks-story-making-magic

JOURNAL

Your Companion to the 14 Chapters of Making Magic

REMEMBER YOUR MAGIC

What does magic mean to you?

This is how we begin to remember our magic. By asking: What does my magic look like, feel like, taste like, and sound like? What does my magic do? Where does my magic go? Who does my magic touch? What does my magic have to tell me? Jot down whatever comes to mind!

BLESSING WAYS

*Blessings you can print and place on an altar,
in your home, in your pocket,
wherever you may need them.*

OPENING PRAYER

Blessed Ones, thank you for this day.
Thank you for the earth beneath my feet,
And for the sky above my head.
Thank you for the breath running through my body,
And the blood running through my veins.
I ask that you give me eyes to see, ears to hear,
and a heart that knows the right path to follow with wisdom and discernment.
Amen and may it be so.

A BLESSING FOR THE BODY

Blessed be my feet that walk upon your face.

Blessed be my knees that bow before your grace.

Blessed be my sex, origin of creative power.

Blessed be my heart, for it is love's bower.

Blessed be my lips, may they tell your stories true.

Blessed be my eyes as they see what my heart already knew.

Blessed be my mind and the workings there within.

Blessed be my ancestors, may they guide me from here until the end.

May I work in beauty, may I work in peace.

From beginning to end in love.

As I ask so shall it be.

SIMPLE BANISHING BLESSING

I banish thee, I banish thee!

I send thee out!

I set thee free!

To dwell in river, wind, and stone.

And nevermore through my house do roam!
